Response to the PSE's inquiry regarding the Philippine Inquirer Article dated 19 January 2018

Clarification of News Report

We reply to your request for clarification on the news article under Biz Buzz column entitled "Another DAU acquisition" published in the January 19, 2018 issue of the Philippine Daily Inquirer. The article reported in part that:

"It was relatively small amount as his investments go, so that may explain why another corporate move made by Davao-based businessman Dennis Uy ('DAU' to his associates, for his initials) went undetected by the broader public for the last couple of months.

Word on the street is that Uy—who has been the toast of the corporate scene for the last year and a half—has acquired a significant stake in gaming IT service provider DFNN.

Biz Buzz heard that Uy's entry into the listed firm (owned by the Garcias) happened sometime last year, but he really asserted his influence only in October when he had the firm's board approve the appointment of his own chief financial officer and chief operating officer.

Of course, it is standard practice for any new investor in a company (especially one who brings in a substantial amount of capital) to have his own officials appointed to oversee operations and, in DFNN's case, the disposition of the new funds.

....

Having a significant stake in DFNN will dovetail perfectly into Uy's other venture that is making waves: his new casino in CEBU.

How much did Uy bring into DFNN? Over P600 million, we hear. That's relatively small compared to his other deals, but who knows? Maybe it won't stop there.

DFNN, Inc. is always open to investors who can bring added value to the business and who appreciate our business vision and model. However, as of the moment, no definite agreement on additional capital infusion has been agreed.

Our business remains robust and growing and from time to time we experience both regulatory and cyclical business challenges but in total we believe we have an attractive value proposition for investors.
